'Buoyant Growth Momentum'

► From Page 1

This demonstrates "the government's political commitment to deliver sustainable public finances, while maintaining its strong infrastructure drive," S&P said in its assessment. The government said S&P's ratings upgrade reflects India's economy is "truly agile, active and resilient," adding that, "India will continue its buoyant growth momentum and undertake steps for further reforms to attain the goal of Viksit Bharat by 2047."

This is the second sovereign rating upgrade for India this year, after Morningstar DBRS raised its rating to BBB in May. Moody's and Fitch continue to rate India at the lowest investment grade of Baa3 and BBB, respectively, with a stable outlook.

The S&P move may prompt other major global agencies to follow suit, said NR Bhanumathi, director of the Madras School of Economics. "The upgrade is an extremely positive development, especially when someone says the Indian economy is a 'dead' one," he said. "It (upgrade) just shows the Indian economy is solid on both the domestic and the external accounts."

While announcing an additional penalty on India for buying oil and arms from Russia, US President Donald Trump had said: "I don't care what India does with Russia. They can take their dead economies down together, for all I care."

Pronab Sen, former National Statistical Commission chairman, said the upgrade was long overdue. "India has an impeccable record of servicing its debt. What perhaps prompted the latest reassessment (by S&P) is that a lot of economies are doing much worse than us at the moment," he said.

Soumya Kanti Ghosh, group chief economist and adviser at State Bank of India, too, said, "The rating did not capture India's fundamentals for almost a decade. The current rating action by S&P reaffirms the position that India's rating ought to have been on the higher side." S&P's BBB rating on India was last witnessed in 1990, Ghosh added.

STRONG PROSPECTS

S&P expects India's growth to average 6.8% over the next three years, after 8.8% annual growth in the three years through FY24—the highest in the Asia-Pacific region.

The economy is expected to grow 6.5% in FY26, which compares favourably with emerging market peers amid a broad global slowdown, the agency said. India has remained the world's fastest-growing major economy since FY22. It is now estimated to be about 80% larger than the pre-pandemic period in rupee terms. In dollar terms, it's almost 50% larger.

Robust economic growth is having "a constructive effect on India's credit metrics, and we expect sound economic fundamentals to underpin growth momentum over the next two to three years," S&P said. "In addition, monetary policy settings have become increasingly conducive to managing inflationary expectations."

The agency said, "Continued policy stability and high infrastructure investment will support India's long-term growth prospects."

That, along with cautious fiscal and monetary policy that moderates the government's high debt and interest burden, will underpin its rating action over the next 24 months, it added.
